

The Travelators

Juggling careers & travel

We are Tom and Katherine, a married couple from Australia. We have been backpacking the world together on-and-off since 2007, juggling our love of travel with professional careers. Our blog is all about taking career breaks to travel, and exploring the world on a budget. We have visited over 65 countries so far – and still counting! Our blog provides practical destination guides, career break tips, travel advice and personal stories, with a focus on budget and off-the-beaten path travel.
